“What we loved”

Project FUEL is a unique initiative where learning is molded from life lessons. Life in itself is a lesson and you need not go to a specialist to learn lessons from it, as the project aims to inspire children through everyday stories of people.

The initiative of the *wisdom corridor* project has enabled children to connect with their immediate surroundings, be it their parents, grandparents, or teachers. The experiences shared by students are examples of their curiosity to understand life and how challenging, inspiring, and motivating it can be. This project was a wonderful experience of my life.

-Premlata Bourai, Principal GGIC Rajpur Road, Dehradun Uttarakhand, India.

"My experience has been phenomenal. I am amazed by the students. The confidence with which they are asking questions to us (teachers) is commendable. Also, the diversity and creativity in their questions show how their critical thinking skills are being polished. It is a wonderful project. I wish we had access to a project like this when I was in school. I would highly recommend this project to all educators."
